Simple City is the second album from Australian electronic composer/musician Matt Archer a.k.a. Bogenschutzer, now based in Salzburg, Austria.

12 instrumental works, combining electronic and acoustic instruments, blended seamlessly together into a single musical journey.

"Simple City is a potent mix of hip hop, dub and electronica that entrances the listener for its full duration..." - InTheMix

"...a thoroughly well-crafted suite of twelve seamlessly-connected songs... Brimming with glockenspiel, guitar, and keyboard melodies, Archer's material is rich and evocative in detail." - textura

"Some people may hear this and compare him to Boards Of Canada and Tortoise, but I would also compare him to the lighter moments of Jazzanova and even Supersilent... Give it a serious listen, and you'll find the sound textures in this city are anything but simple" - John Book, musicforamerica.org

"There's something inexplicable and magical about this album that can only be clarified by listening to it." - 3D World

"Over twelve tracks, Melbourne's Matt Archer, using acoustic and electronic elements, arranges simple (but not simplistic) songs, each one a joy of melody and percussion." - Igloo Magazine
